At King Aerospace, you'll find the highest level of refurbishment expertise.

We give you our word.

We'll also give you the words of one of our valued customers.

Introducing Ron DeSerrano, President of Platinum Air in Dallas, Texas. Ron's company provides aircraft management and charter service to some of business' most exacting professionals. While his customers are demanding, Ron is even more so. This expectation of excellence is evident in everything he does, from hiring professional pilots to choosing exterior paint for a corporate jet. When a Platinum Air Gulfstream IV needed refurbishment last November, it's no surprise he turned to the refurbishment experts at King Aerospace.

With our highly skilled staff of seasoned professionals, we could provide Ron with the level of paint and interior refurbishment expertise he expected. Our New2 Refurbishment Program took him from a detailed proposal to finished aircraft with confidence.

At King Aerospace, expertise is king. We give you our word, and the words of Ron DeSerrano: "The best thing about the whole experience was the people. They were awesome. They had a fantastic attitude, and they worked their hearts out. They're professionals who exhibit a great level of pride in their work and skills, both in the quality of the job and the dedication to get the job done to my satisfaction."

"At King Aerospace, they don't settle for anything but the best, and that's difficult to find today."

"They offered us high quality at a great value. And they did it at a time when prices are sky high elsewhere."

"King Aerospace gave me the confidence they could do a quality job while remaining committed to a predetermined budget and time frame. Excellent performance, on budget, and on time. That's my definition of the word 'value.'"

"At King Aerospace, they don't settle for anything but the best, and that's difficult to find today."
