Message from the President

As president of Celebrity Jet Management, I respect and understand the decision-making process of selecting and managing aircraft charter transportation. I also know you have a choice of charter aviation companies. Our company is built on relationships strengthened by star quality care we provide our people and our planes. At CJM, we take our relationships seriously -- relationships with our clients, as well as with our all-star staff of aviation professionals.

CJM provides air charter transportation service to some of business' most exacting professionals. Whether we're chartering a professional sports team or an entertainment industry group, CJM clients are demanding. And the CJM team of professionals is even more so. Our expectation for excellence to detail is evident in everything we do, from interviewing professional pilots and complying to stringent FAA requirements to selecting gourmet meals and appropriate décor for our vast selection of aircraft. From the day we begin a business relationship, our detailed attention in every aspect of your requirements is revealed every time you fly with us.

I also know that the purchase and maintenance of a corporate jet is serious business. At CJM, we make a point to listen to our client's needs and take the time to align their needs with the right type of aircraft. As clear as the night sky, my visionary leadership is based on the details that strengthen client relationships. We are a charter service company that delivers optimal freedom to experience star-quality attention to detail with the assurance of a guaranteed quote that shines bright with savings. That's our business.

As we embark on our 15th anniversary, I want to thank all of our crew and all of our clients for their dedication to CJM. Lastly, I want to also thank you for visiting our site, and encourage you to call and/or tour one of our facilities. I truly believe that CJM is the shining star of aircraft charter companies.

To optimal freedom,

Steve Smyth
